Other Important Details

It is greatly important to me that you are happy with the final painting! With this said, agreeing to a commissioned painting means you like my personal style of work. You can trust your painting will be completed to the high standard of quality and professionalism existing in all the paintings that leave my studio.

A commissioned painting will take approximately 4 weeks (or longer for larger works) to be completed in the studio.

Due to the nature of oil paint, once finished a painting may require 2-3 weeks to dry before it can be safely packaged and shipped. Please keep this in mind when considering timing, especially if the painting is a gift.

A non-refundable deposit of 50% of the cost of the painting is due upon agreement. The remaining balance plus shipping is due prior to the painting being shipped.
